

Road to Recovery: The Journey of a Recovering Racist

When my wife's sister decided to stop putting off a badly needed hip replacement, my wife immediately planned to spend a week with her down in Fort Mill, SC (just across the state line from Charlotte, NC). Considering all the options of getting her there, it seemed to me that this would be an optimal time to continue my exploration of the South. My son and I would drive her to Fort Mill, then spend nearly a week on the road, connecting and collecting. That week is nearly upon us.

Here's the itinerary:

Date	Location	Leave	Travel	Arrive	Destination	Stops (not necessarily in order)
30-Jul	Richmond	Noon	6	6pm	Fort Mill, SC
31-Jul	Fort Mill, SC	6am	6	Noon	Birmingham, AL	Bethel Baptist Church 16th St Baptist Church Kelly Ingram Park Birmingham Civil Rights Institute
31-Jul	Birmingham	7pm	3	10pm	Hattiesburg, MS
1-Aug	Hattiesburg, MS	6am	3	9am	Wallace, LA	Whitney Plantation
	Wallace, LA	1pm	1	2pm	New Orleans	Treme Neighborhood French Quarter William Frantz Elementary School Hurricane Katrina/Superdome Various other sites
2-Aug
2-Aug	New Orleans	5pm	4	9pm	Montgomery, AL
3-Aug	Montgomery, AL					Legacy Museum Civil Rights Memorial Center Freedom Rides Museum

Date	Location	Leave	Travel	Arrive	Destination	Stops (not necessarily in order)
3-Aug	Montgomery, AL					Peace & Justice Memorial Center Dexter Parsonage Museum
4-Aug						National Memorial for Peace & Justice Dexter Ave Baptist Church
	Montgomery, AL	1pm	4	6pm	Macon, GA	(note: actual travel 4 hrs, but lose 1 hr)
5-Aug						Tubman Museum Pleasant Hill Cotton Ave Big House Museum St Joseph Catholic Church First Baptist Church Holsey Temple Christian Methodist Episcopal Steward Chapel AME Washington Ave Presbyterian
	Macon, GA	3pm	4	7pm	Fort Mill, SC
6-Aug	Fort Mill, SC	9am	5	2pm	Richmond, VA	